

CALL FOR APPLICATIONS

OHBM Aperture Editor-in-Chief Search

Deadline for Receipt of Applications: Friday, May 1st, 2020

The Organization for Human Brain Mapping is seeking applications from OHBM members interested in serving as the first Editor-in-Chief of the Society's new open-access journal, Aperture.

Candidates should have the time, interest, skills, and experience in Neuroscience and/or Biomedical publishing to be effective as the first Editor-in-Chief of Aperture. More details regarding the current scope of work of the Editor-in-Chief are available here. Compensation is not provided for this position.

Interested candidates should submit a Curriculum Vitae and a concise two-page letter describing 1) their experience with the editorial process for scientific journals and publications; 2) assessment of the goals and vision of the new journal; 3) a proposed plan for assembling of the Editorial Board; and 4) a vision of the journal for the first three years no later than Friday, May 1st, 2020.

Candidates selected for interview should be prepared to discuss these aspects in more detail. Submissions should be sent through this ONLINE SUBMISSION FORM.

We plan to have an Editor-in-Chief selected in time for the June Launch of the Platform. The Editor-in-Chief will serve a three-year term with the option to be renewed for a second three-year term. No more than two three-year terms can be served by any individual for the life of Aperture.

Questions regarding the Call for Applications can be directed to Kay Vanda, Aperture's Journal Manager at aperture@humanbrainmapping.org.
